

Dear friend,

Here's the scoop on my new play. It'd be great if you can make it!

Albert

You're invited to a great evening of comedy!

Sterling Theater Company presents...

Albert Fried-Cassorla's

Times Two and Homeowner's Blues

Susannah Holub plays Hermione, and Josh Taliaferro plays Gingold (twins!). Lora Mirigiliani-Bell (not shown) also stars as Nurse Connie and Portia Portico. Margaux St. Ledger directs the production.

Lary Moten cranks up the zaniness as Dr. Bengali and Tedesco, while Jeannie Sconzo gives depth as Helen Midthassel-Kazarnowicz, reluctant homeowner and mother of twins

Imagine an obstetrician who believes that laughter is the best and ONLY medicine for a woman giving birth! Now imagine that that woman is having twins! That is the premise of Times Two, a riotously funny short play about a family and their zany doctor, Dr. Bengali, and his equally ditzzy nurse, Connie.

In the second part of the show, Homeowner's Blues, you'll find the same family several years later. Their twins have been born - Hermione, the girl, and Gingold, the boy.

They're totally rambunctious as their parents prepare to buy an old, dilapidated house from an unscrupulous realtor, Ms. Portico. Then, they flip when a crusty exterminator tells them about the bugs galore they can look forward to.

Don't miss this evening of fun and entertainment!

By Carol Burbank
The cocktail party comedy of Albert Cassorla's one-acts, Times Two and Homeowners' Blues, opened the Play Works Company's season last Sunday with a funny, complicated, script-in-hand reading at the Walnut Street Theatre.

The comedies follow two traumatic moments in the lives of Helen and Hubie Karvonowich-Midthessel. Times Two showed the arrival of surprise twins orchestrated by a Hindu Groucho Marx obstetrician and a cheery, singing and dancing anesthetist. Through
